

Werner Studer

My name is Werner Studer, a resident of Wyoming, living in Casper. I am writing today in support of reducing methane leaking during natural gas production, transportation and usage. Methane is a major contributor to global air pollution and planetary warming. Methane leaking kfrom natural gas and oil wells is a large part of methane accumulation in the atmosphere. Such leakage is wasteful and expensive. Methane can be economically sold on the market which not only reduces methane wastage but benefit Wyoming's decreasing petroleum royalties.

Thank you for the opprotunity to comment on R-37 proposed rule making.
