Dear Ms. Bush:

Documents received from parties that are not delivered in an electronic format as well as in hardcopy, are scanned and then posted to the docket on the website. Every now and then the scanner will pull two pieces of paper through at once and will not scan one page. This is what happened in your case. That is the reason for the disclaimer on the website so that people do not rely on the contents of the website as the official record.

In reviewing your filing, page 12 was received and it is contained in the official record that was used by the Council in coming to their conclusion. There was no intentional conduct on any person's part to edit your filing. At Council meetings, the Council members have access to large three ring binders that contain all of the filings pertaining to the cases before them. In reviewing those binders page 12 was contained in the binders.

In response to your statement regarding the limitation of issues at the hearing on your motion for rehearing, the rules themselves limit the scope of such a hearing and you can review those rules at your leisure. They are contained on our website. The rule is very clear as to what the Council can consider and what the parties are allowed to argue on a Petition for rehearing. The limitations outlined on the day of the hearing were nothing more or less than a reflection of the rules governing this hearing.

Sincerely,

David Searle
Presiding Officer
