Robin,

We have been in communication with a West Virginia consulting company, CARDNO, that is building a permit application for an underground mine in Sheridan County. They are principally interested in our requirements for a subsidence control plan to be included in the application. We do not have any underground mines currently in Sheridan County so we need help in responding to their request for information. Do you have any guidelines or information on subsidence control plans in District I? I don't know if Hanna still has any active underground mines but information covering Cyprus' operations would certainly help. I used to be the mine geologist at Rosebud Coal and I know that subsidence was certainly an issue to us as they were driving their longwall beneath several of our pits at the time.

Any information or guidance you could provide would be invaluable in assisting us to help them craft their application. Contact me at your convenience and perhaps I can learn a thing or two...or ten.
