

Mary Keller

Dear Wyoming DEQ,

It is with pleasure that I write asking you to support and implement new methane emission standards. As a Wyoming native, I seek effective ways to work together for clean air. These improved standards resonate with Wyoming values: less waste, less pollution, and greater wellbeing for plants, animals, and people. I am so concerned when I travel to Pinedale and there are air quality warnings! As a hunter, cross country skier, and lover of Wyoming wildlife, I know we can do better. I am concerned about greenhouse gas emissions that warm our world, and methane is such a powerful, low-hanging fruit to address.

Thank you for your work on behalf of EPA, and for making the opportunity for us to voice our support for the higher standards.
