Haven't we learned by now that methane emissions are harmful to our air quality and create climate changes that we need to prevent. I just don't understand the insistence by many to ignore the science and remain stagnant in changing harmful practices to our environment. Wyomingites pride ourselves on our beautiful great outdoors. I want it to remain beautiful for my kids and theirs. Studies have shown it will save money in the future as well as the present to improve our waste techniques. I for one only vote for people who support what's right for the environment based on scientific fact. Not subjective ideation on how to make more money.
