

Elizabeth Waldron-Knight

Research has shown there are cost effective ways to capture methane that we desperately need to explore. These methods will help us build a stronger, cleaner Wyoming for generations to come and allow the citizens of this great state to enjoy the outdoors more. Thank you for taking the time to review my comment.