

Alisha Wright

Methane emissions are responsible for at least 25% of global warming. Reducing methane emissions will benefit taxpayers and protect our climate, while also building on the state's progress toward reducing harmful pollutants.